...from The Retreat. Update on The Retreat. I have decided not to reopen The Retreat in its current form. It has been a difficult and sad decision to let go of something that was so great! However, holding together such a large centre for massage and complementary therapy under one roof is too much of a challenge in the current time. Practitioners are looking at the new landscape and figuring out the safest and best path forward into work again. Please contact your preferred therapist for information on when and where they will be working over the next few weeks and months. You can find all the contact details on the website: <https://retreat.wales/practitioners>. Assuming that we will be permitted to work again in Wales after 27th July, I intend to work Mondays during August from the Border Injury Clinic, Unit 6, Broadaxe Business Park, Presteigne, LD8 2UH. Please let me know if you would like to book in, subject to receiving confirmation from the Welsh Government - marian@silvanmassage.com or 07816 981454. It's going to be a little bit different for a while, and there are some adjustments to make both sides of the couch. I can give you information on the new health and safety protocols prior to your session, which will include infection control measures, PPE, temperature checks and telephone contact 24 hours prior to your appointment. I am really looking forward to working again, please take a moment to consider whether it is right for you at this time. Marian

...about bonfires. Powys CC have said recently that they are concerned about the impact bonfires could be having on people suffering from breathing difficulties, as a result of contracting COVID-19, and on those who are shielding at home and are unable to get away from the smoke.

Also Mid Wales Fire And Rescue Service urge people in the county not to be tempted to burn garden or household waste, warning that it could place a major burden on its crews. "We understand that during this time of social distancing and self-isolating presents an opportunity to do some gardening and clear out your sheds," the service said in a statement. "However, burning your garden or household waste can be dangerous and unpredictable and can easily spread out of control. This could cause unnecessary demand on our crews having to attend these fires, it could also create a greater number of calls to our Control Room. The effects of the smoke could also affect your breathing, irritate your skin and eyes and worsen respiratory conditions like asthma."

The advice from Powys CC is this. "If your neighbours are lighting bonfires which are causing you nuisance, in the first instance, approach your neighbours and politely tell them how the bonfire is affecting you. Often, people are unaware of the way smoke is blowing and consequently, the effect it is having on you. If after discussing the matter, the neighbour continues to light bonfires which you feel cause you nuisance, you can report the nuisance online. (ed. also, it would be smart to talk to your local town councillor).

The Powys CC website says - Bonfires are only illegal if they cause a nuisance to others. It is commonly thought that there are bylaws banning bonfires or restricting the days or times when they are allowed - but there aren't. However the Environmental Protection Act 1990 can be used to deal with people who act unreasonably and cause a statutory nuisance to neighbours.
